Mysuru, Sept. 17 (MTY, TRR & BCT)- With just nine days for the Dasara festival to begin, a mass cleaning campaign was organised in the city this morning where over 350 volunteers cleaned certain roads that were full of garbage and plastic waste.

The campaign was launched as part of 'World Clean-Up Day' by Let's do it! Mysore in association with the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC).

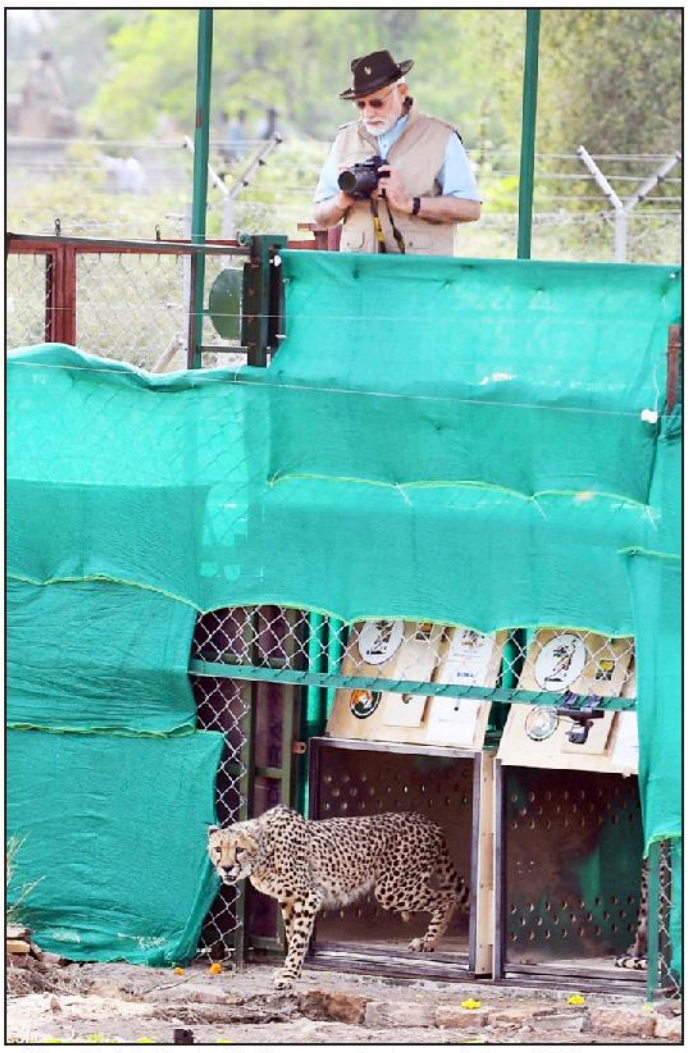
PM releases Cheetahs flown in from Africa

Modi's 72nd birthday gift to Madhya Pradesh: Cheetah project worth Rs. 91 crore



New Delhi, Sept. 17 (Agencies)- Cheetahs, the world's fastest mammals, have been reintroduced to India.

Eight Cheetahs (5 females, 3 males) were brought from Namibia in a cargo flight that was a specially customised tiger-faced B747 jumbo jet. The flight landed in Gwalior this morning, after which they were taken to Kuno National Park, Madhya Pradesh, in a copter.

On his 72nd birthday today, Prime Minister Narendra Modi released three animals into an enclosure spread over 10-km in the presence of Madhya Pradesh Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan and wildlife experts. The PM released the felines by operating a lever that opened the cages.

According to Cheetah Conservation Fund (CCF), an international not-for-profit organisation head quartered in Namibia and dedicated to saving the fastest land animal, the five female Cheetahs are aged between two and five years, while the three males are aged between 4.5 and 5.5 years.

The Cheetahs were flown from Southern Africa for their reintroduction in India after the species was declared extinct in the country in 1952. Modi expressed his gratitude to the African nation of Namibia saying that it would have not been possible without their help.

"Project Cheetah, under which the Cheetahs were reintroduced in the country after they became extinct seven decades ago, is our endeavour towards environment and wildlife conservation," he said, adding that, "21st century India is giving a message to the world that economy and ecology are not conflicting fields."

"The citizens will have to show patience, and wait for a few months to see the Cheetahs released in Kuno National Park. Today, these Cheetahs have come as our guests, unaware of this area. We have to give a few months to these Cheetahs too to make Kuno Park their home," he said.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

The mind can instigate great attributes like generosity, compassion, love, and also negative tendencies like hatred, jealousy, pride and so on. But little do we know that the mind is prone to remember the insults rather than the praises, the shortcomings of others rather than their virtues, the list goes on. So when one gets a negative thought one should immediately turn their attention (mind) to something else by reading something or listening to good music. The thought will recede to the background and after such repeated conditioning will totally stop surfacing. But the good thoughts of kindness or generosity need to be built upon. The mind is fickle and gets influenced by the environment that includes negative people.

One or two stories from the Mahabharata seem relevant here. Once a brahmin came asking for alms to Karna, known for his generosity. Karna was oiling himself before his bath. His right hand was oily and he lifted the golden bowl of oil with his left hand and gifted it to the brahmin. When questioned as to why he lent with his left hand which was inauspicious, he replied that perhaps his mind would have changed during that brief span of time of washing his right hand. When such a great warrior of Karna's stature could feel such uncertainty, what can be said about us?

REALLY...?

- Before the Railway system was invented, people mostly travelled on foot (budget travel) or by water (first-class travel at that time). However, when in the 1840s, an extensive network of Railways was built, people started to travel for fun.
- Mid-19th century definitely marks a real beginning of modern tourism. It's the time when the middle class started to grow. And they have found a way to travel easily around Europe. It's coming by no surprise that the first travel agency, founded by Thomas Cook in England, was established at that time, too. He was using recently developed trains together with a network of hotels to organise his first group trips.

Install Traffic Island on Bogadi - Gaddige Road

Sir,

The Bogadi - Gaddige Road near Sridevi Nursing Home is one of the frequent places of road accidents. Being a natural slope from all sides, vehicles without any speed control move fastly.

Several accidents have occurred on this spot in the past but till date no measures have been taken to prevent speeding of vehicles. On behalf of the travelling public, I request the Traffic Police to install a small Traffic Island with traffic signals so that vehicles will be regulated on four sides.

UNESCO World Heritage Site Status

Team ends State visit at Somnathpur Temple

UNESCO team also visits Belur, Halebid; Mysuru DC translates local views in Kannada to English

T. Narasipur, Sept. 17 (Kumar& BCT)- A team from United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organisation (UNESCO) visited the 13th century Chennakeshava Temple at Somnathpur in Mysuru yesterday before concluding its tour of Hoysala monuments in Karnataka.

The team, headed by Tiang Kian Boon, an expert from International Commission on Monuments and Sites (ICOMOS), also visited the other Hoysala Temples at Belur and Halebid before coming to Somnathpur.

Tiang Kian Boon is expected to submit a report to UNESCO which will decide whether the monuments could be accorded the World Heritage Site tag.

The World Heritage Site tag will be declared in 2023. The Somnathpur Temple is located at a distance of 35 kilometres from Mysuru and the structure is a paradise for art connoisseurs.

Officially, the Hoysala Temples of Belur, Halebid and Somnathpur have been finalised as India's nomination for consideration as World Heritage for the year 2022-2023. The effort has been ongoing since 1992. In Karnataka, only Hampi and Pattadakal are considered UNESCO World Heritage Sites.

There has been a demand to promote more places on the list as it actively promotes conservation efforts and officials have been working since the 1990s to push for the Hoysala Temples on the list.

On the tentative list since 2014

The 'Sacred Ensembles of the Hoysalas' are on UNESCO's tentative list since April 15, 2014 and represent one of the highest points of human creative genius and stand testimony to the rich historical and cultural heritage of our country.

At Somnathpur, Tiang Kian Boon was briefed regarding the architecture of the Temple and the sculptures. He was apprised of its salient features by former Chairperson of Infosys Foundation Sudha Murty who has been actively involved in conservation efforts of heritage Temples and Kalyanis in Karnataka. She also heads the State Tourism Vision Group.

Others in the team were Jahnwij Sharma, Additional Director-General (Conservation and Scientific Preservation), Archaeological Survey of India (ASI), Pankaj Modi, Meera Iyer and Aravind Chandramohan of Indian National Trust for Art and Cultural Heritage (INTACH)-Bengaluru.

Mysuru Deputy Commissioner Dr. Bagadi Gautham and Commissioner, Department of Archaeology, Museums and Heritage A. Devaraju were also present during the team's visit.

Dossier to UNESCO

In fact, INTACH-Bengaluru had prepared the dossier for submission to UNESCO. After the dossier was submitted, technical scrutiny was done. Now the team is doing a site evaluation. The dossier will be taken up for consideration in July or August 2023.

According to the epigraphical records available with the Archaeological Survey of India (ASI), Soma, commander-in-chief of the Hoysala king Narasimha III (1254-1291 AD) built the shrine in 1268 AD. Built using a soft stone (greenish schist stone), every inch of the Temple is adorned with various sculptures and the entire shrine is raised on a star-shaped moulded platform.

Interaction with villagers

After the site visit, Tiang Kian Boon met Somnathpur villagers and local businessmen especially those doing business at a short distance from the Temple and elicited their views on the site being accorded a World Heritage Site status.

The Mysuru DC translated the views of the local community from Kannada to English for Tiang Kian Boon to understand. The villagers told the ICOMOS head that as of now, the Temple with superior and wonderful architecture was known only in the local areas and some of the tourists who come from Mysuru. If at all the Temple gets the distinction of being a World Heritage Site, it will be known to the entire world and it will be a matter of pride to the village too.

State to ensure conservation: Centre

A note from the Press Information Bureau (PIB) stated that the State Government will ensure the conservation of State-protected monuments which are around these three monuments since it would add to the visual integrity of the place.

The District Master Plan will also incorporate the buffers of all monuments and build an integrated management plan and the State will also look at the traffic management issues to be looked into especially around the designated property.

"These Temples attest to the creativity and skill of the Hoysala artists and architects who built these masterpieces of a kind never seen before or since. The Hoysala architects used their profound knowledge of Temple architecture in different parts of India to their advantage," the PIB said.

The Hoysala architects made considered and informed eclectic selections of features from other Temple typologies which they further modified and then complemented with their particular innovations. The result was the birth of a completely novel 'Hoysala Temple' form, the PIB release added.

On this day, it is believed that Goddess Cauvery comes in the form of a fountainhead where water gushes up from Brahmakundike in front of the Kalyani at the predetermined time. The authorities of Sri Bhagandeshwara-Talacauvery temple have announced the date of this year's Theerthodbhava and accordingly arrangements at the hill temple will be made.

On the occasion of Theerthodbhava, rituals such as rice being poured to 'Pathaya' (Vrishchika Lagna) of Sri Bhagandeshwara Swamy Temple at Bhagamandala will be held as per tradition on Sept. 27 at 11.05 am during Vrishchika Lagna.

On Oct. 5 (9.35 am): 'Ajna Muhurtha' will be held at 'Vrishchika Lagna'; Oct.15 (11.45 am): Placing of 'Akshaya Patra' (Dhanur Lagna); 4.15 pm: Offering boxes will be placed (Kumbha Lagna).

Why mourn the Queen?

The British Queen is dead. She was the representative of one of the most cruel empires. Yet, basic human decency requires us to express our condolences. However, the Indian Government and some Indians went overboard with condolence, making us look subservient.

No matter how much anyone attempts to soften the evil image of the British Empire via the imagery of the ever-so-pleasant Queen Elizabeth II, the fact remains that the British Empire was not a force for good.

If you happen to read 'Legacy of Violence: A History of the British Empire' by Pulitzer-winning history Professor Caroline Elkins or Shashi Tharoor's 'An Era of Darkness: The British Empire in India' you will get a glimpse of the havoc the British wreaked on the Indian subcontinent and its other colonies. The essay series by Economist Utsa Patnaik lays bare the economic loot of India by the Empire.

That said, any self-respecting Indian would cringe seeing how our Government mourned the British Queen.

The Indian Government declared September 11 as 'State Mourning' throughout India, and an official statement said that this was done as 'a mark of respect to Her Majesty'.

Article 18 of the Indian Constitution abolishes titles such as Maharaja, Highness, Majesty, etc. Why, then, does the Indian Government, in its official statement, feel the need to address the Queen as 'Her Majesty'? She is the Britishers' Majesty. We don't have it in independent India.

Well, one must admit that even the Indian media and educated Indians, while addressing former members of princely Indian families, words like 'Your Highness' and 'Majesty' often creep up.

On Sunday, the Indian flag was lowered to half-mast at the Red Fort and Rashtrapati Bhavan. And if India declaring a state of mourning for the British Queen wasn't embarrassing enough, the illumination of the Mysore Palace too was cancelled that day!

The BJP Government deploys words like "swadeshi", "swaraj" and "swabhiman" to claim a monopoly over patriotism.

This Government loves to change the anglicised names of our cities; another effort to erase the remnants of British rule. But now, without hesitation, it declares "State mourning" for the head of an empire that unapologetically distorted the names of our cities repeatedly.

Last week, Prime Minister Narendra Modi, while renaming Kingsway (named after King George V, Queen Elizabeth's grandfather) to Kartavya Path, called the old name a "symbol of slavery".

Earlier this month, during the commissioning of India's first indigenously built aircraft carrier INS Vikrant, the Prime Minister also unveiled a new Navy ensign, Nishaan, replacing the Colonial Saint George's Cross. After unveiling the new ensign, the PM said the country has now taken off a "burden of slavery."

Now, just a few days after speaking about shedding symbols of slavery and installing a statue of Subash Chandra Bose, the man who wanted to wage war on the British Empire to free us, this Government declares "State mourning" for a British Queen! It's bewildering.

The Prime Minister said, "I believe we should respect the dead and that despite all the horrible past of colonisation and other human rights violations, the Queen deserves a dignified final adieu." Yes, the dead deserve a dignified farewell, and Heads of State, as per protocol, can express their condolence, but why should this nation and its people officially mourn her death?

Some say let's mourn the Queen, not the Empire. But without the Empire, she wouldn't be Queen. So whether we like it or not, she is the head of the British Empire, a head who never once apologised for the sins of her fathers.

When Queen Elizabeth II came to India in 1997, everyone thought she would apologise for the atrocities committed in India.

All she said was, "It is no secret that there have been some difficult episodes in our past — Jallianwala Bagh, which I shall visit tomorrow, is a distressing example. But history cannot be rewritten, however much we might sometimes wish otherwise."

Indeed, history cannot be rewritten, but an apology is a way to acknowledge that what happened should never have happened. So, why didn't she apologise? Money issues — reparations.

The proof of this came when the then UK Foreign Office Minister Mark Field said, "There may well be financial implications to making an apology."

Worse is what happened after she visited Jallianwala Bagh memorial. On the way out, Prince Philip, her husband, stopped to query an official.

It seems he did not believe India's claim about the number of people murdered at Jallianwala Bagh. He asked: "Two thousand? It wasn't, was it? That's wrong. I was in the navy with Dyer's son (Col. Reginald Dyer ordered the firing at Jallianwala Bagh). That's a bit exaggerated…it must include the wounded."

That's how insensitive the British Monarchy is about its atrocities. And the Government declares a State mourning for the Head of that Monarchy? And our President is going to her funeral too! Why?

When most young Britishers, who should be grateful to their Monarchy for the loot and pillage that has kept their cold little Island wealthy, don't particularly care for them, why should India? In fact, the present Prime Minister of England Liz Truss had said, "I am not against any of them (the royals), I am against the idea that people can be born to rule... I think it is disgraceful."

Have we forgotten the atrocities the British heaped on us — from killing millions over 200 years — starvation and famines, partition, slave trading, hanging and rampant shootings?

It's been 75 years; we're old enough to stand up to the world's Empires and strong enough to treat them with a sense of indifference when necessary.

We need to wake up from our subservient slumber, for if we don't respect ourselves, others don't have a reason to. As Gandhiji said, "...every man or woman, however weak in body, is the guardian of his or her self-respect and liberty."

When the cleaning campaign ended in the afternoon, over four tractor-loads and over 80 bags of waste were collected and moved to the dry waste collection centres of the MCC. Dry leaves and bio-degradable waste were left as-is so that they decay on their own.

Participating in the campaign, Minister Somashekar said that all of us have the dual responsibility of keeping our surroundings clean and also ensure the cleanliness of Mysuru city.

Deputy Mayor Dr. G. Roopa, Deputy Commissioner Dr. Bagadi Gautham, MCC Commissioner G. Lakshmikantha Reddy, Zoo Authority of Karnataka Chairman Shivakumar and others were present.

Prior to the launch of the Utsav, S.M. Krishna was brought in an open jeep to the venue in a grand procession from Chamundipuram Circle. The procession was accompanied a host of folk troupes, with crowds greeting and cheering the leaders all along the route. Ramdas, District Minister S.T. Somashekar, MP Pratap Simha, Mayor Shivakumar and others were in the open jeep.

Speaking on the occasion, Krishna said that he knows Ramdas well for the past several years as an MLA. Maintaining that he was impressed with Ramdas' speeches in the Assembly when he was the CM, he said that Ramdas used to target the then Congress Government headed by him with facts and figures.

Recalling the political journey of Ramdas, Krishna said that the conduct of Modi Yug Utsav is a perfect birthday gift to Prime Minister Modi, who has been working overtime to make the country an economic giant.

The veteran leader said that he was delighted that Modi's birthday is being celebrated by the K.R. MLA in a purposeful manner, by delivering the benefits to numerous beneficiaries of various Government schemes. He wished the Utsav all success.

PM releases Cheetahs

The 750-square-kilometre (290-square-mile) protected park was selected as a home because of its abundant prey and grasslands. Another 12 Cheetahs are expected to join the fledgling Indian population next month from South Africa.

And as India gathers more funding for the Rs. 91 crore project, largely financed by the State-owned Indian Oil, it hopes to eventually grow the population to around 40 cats.

Radio collars have been strapped on all the Cheetahs to be monitored through satellite. There is a dedicated monitoring team behind each Cheetah which will monitor their movements round-the-clock.

Actor Dali adds colour to 'Yuva Sambhrama'

Nine-day youth festival kicks off at Manasagangothri Open Air Theatre

Mysuru, Sept. 17- The nine-day 'Yuva Sambhrama', a prelude to 'Yuva Dasara' targeting the youth population of Mysuru got off to a colourful start at the Open Air Theatre in Manasagangothri last evening.

'Yuva Sambhrama' and 'Yuva Dasara' are platforms for hundreds of college students to showcase their talents in various art forms during Dasara. Teams of youths will set the stage on fire with their high-performance dances, music and skills. Select teams that have excelled in 'Yuva Sambhrama' will get a chance to perform in the 'Yuva Dasara' programme.

The sort of mega youth festival was inaugurated by Kannada actor Dali Dhananjaya by beating native drums and the crowd cheered him from the nook and corner of the Open Air Theatre. Dali's latest flick 'Monsoon Raaga' has hit the screens now.

The inauguration was done in the presence of Mysuru District Minister S.T. Somashekar, MLA L. Nagendra and Mayor Shivakumar.

Preparations for the 'Yuva Sambhrama' began two days back and only yesterday morning, the posters, welcome arches and welcome hangings were laid all over the sprawling Manasagangothri campus, to welcome the young crowd.

Dhananjaya recalls his college days

In fact, Dali Dhananjaya was the main attraction for the event and he was clad in a white full-sleeve shirt and dhoti, bringing a traditional flavour to the event. As the actor walked toward the stage, crowds cheered him and called out his name aloud and the actor responded by waving at the crowd.

In his address, Dhananjaya recalled his student days in Manasagangothri. "Yuva Dasara was being organised here and I still remember enjoying the evenings," he recalled. "Such youth festivals help independent thinking and boost creativity. Such events must be a daily affair on campuses," he added.

Responding to public demand, Dhananjaya entertained his fans with famous dialogues from his movies such as 'Tagaru', 'Badava Rascal' and 'Monsoon Raaga.'

In his speech, Minister Somashekar said that Dasara is being celebrated in a grand manner this year with the steep drop in COVID-19 cases. Students from more than 100 colleges are participating in the 'Yuva Sambhrama', he said.

Students elated

Speaking to Star of Mysore, J. Rakesh, a student of Maharaja's College and a participant in the event said, "I love Dali and the reason I am here today is because of my favourite actor."

M. Lakshmi from St. Aloysius College, Mangaluru, said, "I really love these artistic performances. I came from Mangaluru to this event as I missed them in the last two years. Also, I like Dali as he is one of the best actors in Karnataka."

Honouring the late Dr. Puneeth Raj Kumar, the organisers displayed his photo in the background of the stage. "I wish my favourite actor Appu was here and I really miss him, I still cannot believe that he is no more," J. Pavithra, one among the crowd said.

Different teams of dancers wearing their special outfits filled the campus. 'Yuva Sambhrama' is organised every year by the Government in collaboration with University of Mysore to attract students from different colleges.

Sub-committee Working President Dr. B.S. Chandrashekar said that the stage programme of Raitha Dasara will take place at MMC&RI Platinum Jubilee Hall in J.K. Grounds at 11 am on Sept. 30, during which 14 progressive farmers will be felicitated.

Also, the farmers will share their experiences and Agricultural scientists will hold an interaction, he added.

WORD OF THE DAY

Titivate

Pronunciation: TIH-tuh-vayt.
Meaning: Titivate means "to make (someone or something) neater or more attractive," and is a synonym of spruce up.
Origin: Titivate is a fancy way of saying spruce up, smarten up, or spiff up; all mean "to make a person or thing neater or more attractive." Titivate often refers to making small additions or alterations in attire ("titivate the costume with sequins and other accessories"), but it can also be used figuratively, as in "titivating the script for Broadway." The origins of titivate are uncertain, but it may have been formed by combining tidy and renovate. Spiffy, if true.
Example: "From the US seafood seasoning Old Bay ... to lapsang souchong salt, there are numerous ways to titivate chips." — Tony Naylor

THE ODD WORD

Tabellary

Auditor; carrier of letters.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Take potluck

Meaning: Take one's chance as to what meal one is served when accepting another's hospitality. Also, in the USA, potluck is the name of a communal meal, in which participants each bring a dish to be shared.
Origin: 'Take potluck' originated in the UK in the 16th century. The original 'take one's chance at what is being served' meaning is still the one that is used and understood there and everywhere else outside of the USA. Thomas Nashe recorded the term in Strange newes, of the intercepting certaine letters, and a convoy of verses, 1592: "That, that pure sanguine complexion of yours may neuer be famisht with potte-lucke." The American 'bring food to a party' meaning was defined in an entry in American Speech in 1924:
"Pot luck, food contributed by the guest. To take pot luck is to bring food with one to a party." The use of the hyphen in the early citation of potte-lucke indicates that the expression may well have been in use earlier than the 16th century. Many words have taken the journey from two words -> hyphenated pair -> single compound word.
